Advertising Policy: Although the Academy believes these classified ads are from reputable sources, the Academy does not investigate the offers made and assumes no responsibility concerning them. Frequently, it is necessary to modify the wording of classified ads. These changes are generally made in compliance with the regulations of various federal and/or state commissions against discrimination or because they might be interpreted as being unlawful or in conflict with professional standards of medical practice.

Advertisements for employment containing specifications as to race, creed, color, age, religion, gender, ethnic origin or national origin may be unlawful and professionally improper. Accordingly, discriminatory wording is not acceptable in AAs.

Other phrases for publication in various advertising classifications which might be interpreted as being unlawful and in conflict with professional standards of medical practice could include: “Complete list of patients’ records for sale,” the offer of rebates or “kickbacks,” wording that could be interpreted as derogatory or defamatory to other physicians, the misrepresentation of skills expected or job requirements.

These advertising modifications are made to maintain a classified section that is professionally responsible, lawful, scientific and free of discrimination.

1996 Section on Allergy and Immunology Visiting Professor Program Could you benefit from an update on the latest information on pediatric allergy and immunology, straight from the professor’s “mouth”? If so, the Section on Allergy and Immunology of the American Academy of Pediatrics wants to inform you of its Visiting Professor Program. The purpose of this free program is to send an allergist/immunologist for two days to pediatric training programs which do not have a pediatric allergist/immunologist. The intention is for a visiting professor to provide lectures, discussion of clinical problems, and perhaps assist in introducing certain procedures that may enhance the allergy/immunology training of the pediatric house staff. A list of the board-certified allergist/immunologists who are members of the Section and who have volunteered to participate in the visiting professor series will be mailed to you upon your request.
