Practical Pediatrics course offers dialogue on obesity and other hot topics

Learn about a variety of pediatric hot topics at the Practical Pediatrics course in Williamsburg, Va. The continuing medical education course will be held at the Williamsburg Lodge from Dec. 11-13 and will focus on pediatric obesity.

Quality lectures will be taught by prominent faculty and will feature interactive seminars as well as opportunities to interact with faculty at question-and-answer sessions.

The half-day concurrent seminar style of the course allows for plenty of time to enjoy Williamsburg's holiday celebrations — some of which date back to the early years of the Jamestown Colony.

Course highlights and faculty include:

- Obesity in Children and Adolescents: An Expanding Problem with Robert P. Schwartz M.D., FAAP, professor of pediatrics, chief of pediatric endocrinology at Wake Forest University School of Medicine, Winston-Salem, N.C.;

- Hypertension in Adolescents with Corrine Lehmann, M.D., FACP, FAAP, associate professor of pediatrics and internal medicine at the Cincinnati Children's Hospital Medical Center, Cincinnati;

- The Strong, Silent Type: Evaluation of the Child with Delayed Language with Andrew M. Morgan, M.D., FAAP, professor of clinical pediatrics and chief of the section of Child Development at the University of Illinois College of Medicine, Peoria, Ill.;

- Don't Miss Cardiovascular Issues During a Sports Exam with Reginald Washington, M.D., FACC, FAHA, FAAP, clinical professor of pediatric cardiology at the University of Colorado School of Medicine, Denver;

- Common GI Problems with Carlo DiLorenzo, M.D., professor of clinical pediatrics at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio;

- Intervention Strategies for Autistic Spectrum Disorders: What Every Pediatrician

Should Know with Andrew M. Morgan, M.D., FAAP, professor of clinical pediatrics and chief of the Section of Child Development at the University of Illinois College of Medicine, Peoria, Ill.

Participants can earn a maximum of 17.25 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits as well as 17.25 NAPNAP contact hours.
