Mountains, snow are backdrop for Practical Pediatrics in New Mexico

A snow-covered blend of Native American and Mexican culture makes for a thrilling experience in Santa Fe, N.M. While enjoying the mountains, learn about the latest pediatric topics at the Practical Pediatrics course Dec. 3-5.

The interactive sessions address a variety of issues and leave ample time to explore the city's festive lighting. Prominent faculty offer lectures on hot topics such as celiac disease in children, atopic dermatitis, gastroenteritis and food allergy myths.

Course highlights and faculty include:

- A Practical Approach to the Diagnosis and Management of Chronic Cough, Evaluation and Management of the Infant with Noisy Breathing and Case-based Approach to Pulmonary Diagnostic Challenges, with Veda L. Ackerman, M.D., FAAP, associate professor of pediatrics at Indiana University School of Medicine, Indianapolis;
- Infectious Disease Case: Bring Yours or Figure Out Mine, Urinary Tract Infections: More Questions Than Answers and Gastroenteritis: Cultures, Antibiotics or Chicken Soup? with Meg Fisher, M.D., FAAP, medical director at the Children's Hospital at Monmouth Medical Center, Long Branch, Md.;
